let the program do that for you by choosing the 'Random' option. Once the connection is active, Internet communications are encrypted and your computer is given a false IP address. No matter the application you use (email client, web browser etc.), the connection appears as coming from another location and your identity is hidden, thus preventing unwanted tracking. The application features unlimited traffic and provides fast navigation speed. Furthermore, changing the IP address results in removing the restrictions that some websites impose for different geographical regions. For instance, you can use it to watch national TV channels while you are abroad. The application features an intuitive user interface, and it supports simultaneous connections to more than one VPN. Additionally, this program comes with a virtual firewall that ensures that the connection is truly safe. Vpn One Click is an intuitive tool that comes in handy for those who want to anonymize the Internet connection and modify the IP address, in order to stop unwanted interceptions and protect their privacy. Vpn One Click is a fast, easy-to-use and secure application that lets you connect to a virtual private network. You can use the software for connecting to a server in a different region of the world and browsing anonymously, encrypting your Internet connection, but still being able to use the Internet. By using the virtual private network, the application will give your computer a false IP address and enable you to surf the Internet without any limitations. This is possible because most websites work with regional settings. To protect your privacy, the application does not keep any logs or record your Internet activity. It is also easy to use. With a simple and intuitive interface, it is possible to select the VPN server location, view the connection status and your

IP address. Vpn One Click includes multiple VPN servers, which are located in different countries. You can choose the network, or choose 'Random', to get different IP addresses. There are no configuration options in the application, which makes it perfect for any type of user, whether you're a beginner or a professional. If the connection is active, the application appears to be another computer on the network. The application features unlimited traffic and provides fast navigation speed. When changing the IP address, it is possible to remove any limitations that certain websites impose for different geographical regions. Other ways to use the application: 1) To protect your identity while browsing the Internet, connect to a virtual private network. 2) For browsing without limitations, connect to a VPN server. 3) For browsing in anonymity, connect to a VPN server while keeping your IP address constant. 4) If you are able to watch local TV channels while you are abroad, connect to a VPN server while keeping your IP address constant.
