Yahoo PopUp Notifier is a handy software for notifying your visitors when you have updated a message, message board, or other content on your Yahoo! Web site. It also allows you to specify the timing of the popup window. Yahoo! PopUp Notifier Features: The program allows you to specify a message that will be delivered to visitors of your site as a popup window after the selected time elapses. The message can be displayed at any time after its creation. The system supports Yahoo! Message Boards. It makes it easy to customize the appearance of a message, as well as the final appearance of the popup window. The user interface allows you to specify parameters such as the message title, message subject, and image to be displayed. The program supports hot linking, and it can be enabled/disabled at any time. The program supports all the standard HTML tags and attributes, and allows you to change the format and content of them. In case the number of downloads exceeds the maximum number of downloads, the tool generates a warning message and displays the number of failed attempts in a separate window. The user can customize the error messages in the notification box. If you need to move the message to a new URL and add the parameter &popup=yes, you can do it easily. You can configure the popup message to avoid popups completely.
