eJuice LeftOvers is a user-friendly and efficient piece of software designed to offer you the means of using all your e-cigarette ingredients, even when you are only left with a few milliliters of certain liquids. Clean and intuitive looks After a fairly rapid installation process, with no events to speak of, you can launch the application and start working with it right away, as it offers a fairly self-explanatory interface. The main window features an 'Add' button, which you will need in order to enter your e-liquids - at least two of them, while the 'Calculate' button will generate the result and display it in the main window. Swiftly create new recipes for your e-cigarette For starters, you need to enter your remaining ingredients into the program, by entering a name and the percentage of PG (propylenglykol), PEG 400 (polyethylene glycol 400), VG (vegetable Glycerin) and H2O (purified water), their summed percentage being 100. You will also need to input the total quantity in milliliters and the nicotine amount, bearing in mind that the utility only supports metric system units. In order to create a base, you need to have at least two different ingredients. When you are done adding the e-liquids, you can press on the 'Calculate' button and eJuice LeftOvers will display the resulting base, along with the corresponding amount for each chemical. However, the results cannot be saved or exported to a file, nor printed, so you need to write them down yourself. A handy tool for creating e-bases
