Q: Refresh data in jsTree after drag & drop

I created a JS Tree using jsTree. One feature I want is to refresh the data when I drag & drop the element. I tried using setEditable method like below.

$( "#tree"
).on("init.jstree", function (e, data) { var $this = $(this);
    $this.jstree(true).set_op_type('rename');
    $this.jstree(true).bind('select_node.jstree paste_data.jstree', function(e, data) { if (data.element.attr('id')!= 'elem') { $('mydiv').html(" +
data.node.text + "); } $this.jstree(true).rename({ data:

data.rename, new_name: data.rename })); })); })); Here is a fiddle. But,

A small and simple HTTP proxy that will help you with traffic analysis. User friendly interface that will reduce the complexity of intercepting any HTTP traffic on your network. Note: - run without Administrator privileges - run without Administrator privileges without DLL - run without Administrator privileges without DLL & JIT License: Freeware $ 0.00. Other offers available. Price: Free File size: 6.6 MB Detect DNS Spy Detect DNS Spy is a simple and light solution designed to diagnose who is spying on you and steal your passwords. The application scans the whole network in order to detect what DNS servers are used to resolve specific IP addresses. Then, it looks for a list of IP addresses using the leaked DNS data, in order to find out how often a specific IP address is used. Results shows the main IP address responsible for resolving the IP in question, along with the number of attempts used to resolve it, its source IP and the last successfully used DNS server. Moreover, you can save and share your findings for further analysis. In conclusion, this application is simple and quick in use, but it is not effective to look for the latest sophisticated DNS interception techniques. It requires high computing power and resources. However, if you are looking for an application that is effective and light on system resources, it may be your best bet. Detect DNS Spy Description: A very light application that will tell you who is doing the DNS resolution on your network. The application is based on the theory that after you resolve a certain IP address, the network equipment that is in between you and the IP address resolves the IP address using the DNS servers that are listed in the PTR record of the same IP address. The application allows you to search for addresses that have been recently resolved by a specific IP address, rather than all possible addresses. It allows you to set the idle time before an IP address is considered as a user, the interval at which the address is monitored and the idle time after it was last resolved. The results are shown as a table where you can view the source IP and the last IP address used to resolve the IP address. The program is based on a simple idea, but it can provide useful information if properly configured. It also supports the background running so that you don't have to make a search for each IP address you want to look up. The application needs to be restarted in order to capture a new IP address. It has been designed

Free HTTP Sniffer Torrent

This freeware captures hypertext and other media through your local network, then analyzes the packets to extract URLs. It includes support for many popular media types, such as GIF, JPEG, HTML, PNG, TIFF and more. Each time you capture the packets, they are saved in a text file. This can be quite useful for obtaining the source and destination IP and port, as well as any embedded resources, since you can open the file and inspect the URLs. However, you can also save the results to a plain text file. This file is useful to analyze or clean the list of URLs. You can remove duplicates, avoid repetitions, rearrange, clean out address from the results, and set up the filter parameters for a specific protocol. You can open a URL and display the grid lines. In addition, you can select a column width to display the length of any embedded resources. You can also press "Clear Results" to discard all previous capture results, keep the list of URLs in current page display, or clear the results again, so you can open a new URL. You can also edit the saved results to modify the format. This free utility is designed as a lightweight, reliable, lightweight, fast-loading (less than a minute) and stable solution that supports multiple file types, such as GIF, JPEG, HTML, PNG, TIFF, and more. It has been tested on Windows 2000, Windows XP, Windows Vista, Windows 7, Windows 8 and Windows 10. Free HTTP Sniffer Screenshots: WHAT'S NEW - New user interface and some bug fixes. Thank You!
