Headless is a small, simple Chrome headless application that makes it possible to capture screen captures of a web page in a convenient manner. In contrast to other similar solutions that require you to navigate through every single image as well as video, Headless does not load any of that content. No image Headless does not require you to download any of the images or video that you wish to capture. Instead, the tool lets you define the URL of the webpage and get an instantaneous image of the whole page. No need to navigate When you launch Headless, you may register several websites to save them. This happens automatically. You will get a generated URL in the form of web.tr.com. The image is placed straight in the downloads folder with the name of the website. Actionable images You will receive an image, but you may decide to filter out those that do not meet your requirements. You may do that by clicking on the camera icon. After that, the image is placed on the clipboard. You may paste it into any image-editing software that you may employ. The final screenshot should reflect the changes you have made to the captured page. No flash The tool features CSS selectors that allow you to automate the process and get headless screenshots that do not contain any flash elements. Capture whole pages Headless allows you to save the whole webpage that you have registered. This happens in a way similar to the screenshot feature, and you will find the image in the downloads folder.
