That could mean that they're using old keys that you used or that they've changed the servers the keys go to. Either way it probably means that you need to find a new key. Also, can you remove the X-WAP-ROBOT check in the start page? That's not needed, but there's very few reason that WAP should be in use. If you can't find one, I'd contact the author to see if they have another key. Q: php

laravel array I have problem to make query work. function vietname() { $college =
College::where('title', 'like', '%prov', 'tu')->get(); return $college; } So I get result with queries : | college_id | title | |-----| | 1 | vừa dành để | | 2 | lập pháp lý | | 3 | học giỏi nhân | | 4 | phải đặt giá | But I want to have result as : | college_id | title | |-----| | 1 | vừa dành để | |
2 | lập pháp lý | | 3 | học giỏi nhân | | 4 | phải đặt giá | How do it? A: Use
$college->whereIn('title',array('v

How can we say that consecutive positive integer $$ \bmod n $$ contains no prime number? For example, $$ $ \begin{cases} 0 \bmod 8, \\ 3 \bmod 8, \\ 6 \bmod 8, \\ 15 \bmod 8, \\ 1, \\ 2, \\ \end{cases}$

4, \\ 5 \\end{cases} $$ all have no prime number.
 Are there any arguments to show this? A: Hint:
 Every integer mod $n$ can be written as a product of the form $p^a$ ($p$ is prime) and $r^b$ ($r$ is prime and $1 \\le a \\le b$). So, the number of such $r$'s is: $$ \\sum_{p|n} \\text{occ13bf012}

I haven't tried FM RTE but IMO if your using FM9.3 and beyond with most editors you use Source-engine-installers-rev.9.9-portable. This is written from my experience with 7 years of FM9.3 use and I have only one (well very few actually) problems with it. The others have been with the engine itself not the editor. The editor is your friend not an enemy. . Download and Use FM9.3 - source-engine-installers-rev.9.9-portable.exe. To run, double-click to start the setup and follow through to the end.. Fanart by nathani.Cynodontia Cynodontia is the earliest suborder of mammalian carnivores, dating back to the mid-Oligocene period, 34 million years ago. The earliest cynodont was a small, primitive animal, Archictopsoides henana, of the family Archictopidae. It has been found in Europe, North America, and Asia. The Cynodontia are a suborder of carnivorous mammals characterized by teeth adapted to the killing of prey with a grinding action. The tooth-teeth used for this purpose are called carnassials. Originally, these were sharp-pointed carnassial teeth, later replaced by more curved molars and premolars. In the teeth of some species, upper and lower mandibles (having at least a diastema) are found in the same individual. The cynodont suborder is the second most diverse mammalian suborder after the Perissodactyla. Around this time, the ancestor of the carnivorous mammals, which were already diverse, were slowly evolving and diversifying. There are many different species in the suborder; this diversity is very similar to the level of diversity of the Perissodactyla. Cynodonts have an elongated snout (prognathism), generally larger eyes, a toothless beak, and are almost completely covered in fur. They are carnivores and almost exclusively feed on the meat of other animals, attacking them by crushing, puncturing, or severing. Classification Cynodontia is classified within the superorder Archosauria and order Carnivora, which includes modern carnivores and most of the extinct mammals. Traditionally, the group was considered to be more closely related to reptiles than to other mammals, and was therefore placed in the infraorder Archosauromorpha. However, it was subsequently found to share some characteristics, such as teeth and the clavicle, that were not seen in any reptile, but were typical of other mammals. It was therefore
