Developed by Metrological Games. Released on Wednesday, 23rd October 2016, this content is available for both PC and MAC computers and requires a Steam account to install. DRIVEN BY YOU The Operator is a critical part of any locomotive. For Train Simulator's real-life version, the Operator was "designing, testing, supervising, and regulating all the electrical and mechanical systems of the locomotive", and so the position of the Operator was one of the most important on the train. The Operator's seat was also referred to as the 'Captain's Chair' or even 'the Number One's Chair'. If the Operator sat in this chair, the train would run smoothly and safely. Today, the Operator's seat is still referred to by the same terms; an impressive display of historical accuracy! From the earliest days of the railway industry, the Operator's seat was a critical part of the design of the locomotive. FROM PLAN TO PRODUCT First, Metrological Games put a lot of planning into the conversion of Train Simulator's popular diesel loco to Southern Pacific SD70M. When the development work was finished, they added a selection of real Southern Pacific SD70M features and equipment, including a wiper system that went up and down the cab window like the real deal. THE MANY HIGHLIGHTS The many highlights of the Southern Pacific SD70M include: Recoil starter Voice system: Choose from 18 options to control the train's operation and service features from the cab Clear the air brakes, including the master and class A brake Display and operate: Levers that control the locomotive's speed, apply the brakes, start steam and drain the boiler Control the automatic water, hydraulic and air systems Multiple displays that provide operational information Voice control and display of train speed, distance travelled and fuel consumption Safety features: Red anti-lock brakes Blackened firebox Train control wheel Tachometer showing real time speed Coupler release Levers that control the locomotive's head and tail lights Voice control: Use the individual parts to operate controls and record messages Each voice option in the voice system was carefully selected to replicate the operator's job, from the simple to the technical EASY-TO-USE SYSTEM The Southern Pacific SD70

Q: Abelian prime ideal question Let R be a finite commutative ring with 1. Let P be an Abelian prime ideal of R (i.e. a prime ideal which is also an abelian group ideal). I want to show that R/P is a finite commutative ring. A: So this is one of the first results I can remember reading off the top of my head from a standard text in commutative algebra (undergraduate) on the subject. Maybe the result will help here too. Assume that I is an ideal of the ring R such that I is an ideal of an abelian subgroup H of R. If $\overline H$ is the image of H in R/I, then $\overline H$ is abelian. Proposition: Let I be an ideal of the ring R, with I° being the ideal of R/I generated by the image of an idempotent e in R. If $\overline e = e + I$, and e is an idempotent generating I, then $e + I$ is an idempotent and generates I°. Proof: By hypothesis, $e = \bar a + b$, for some $a, b \in R$. Since e is idempotent, $a+b = b+a$. Thus, $$\bar a + \bar b + I = e + a + e + b = a + b$$
