Service Work Order Routing & Dispatch SWORD features a comprehensive and user friendly interface which is easy to navigate and provides all the options, fields, and reports you need. SWORD allows you to create, view, route, report on, and process Service Orders and their associated Service Workers. Field service personnel (Service Workers) are routed or dispatched to service calls using Service Orders (SOs) and Work Tickets. Service Orders are “temporary” documents that are created by a call center operator when a service call is placed. SWORD Service Orders are organized by customer, schedule data, and location. Each Service Order contains all the required documentation and information to create an invoice for each worker that goes out on the service call. Service Order Routes by Selector Each service call is allocated to a route (Selector). Services are assigned to specific routes depending on the skill and the travel distances involved. So, a route may contain 2 or 3 service calls, each with a corresponding worker. Once a worker has finished a call, he is assigned to a different route. The same worker cannot service more than one call on the same day. SWORD lets you display a wide variety of information on service orders, such as the following:

- Order/SO Numbers
- Service Calls
- Contractor, Vendor, or Service Field Workers
- Service Call Total
- Time Line of Services
- Set-up Date
- Service Call Location
- Contractor
- Service Call
- SO Complete
- Sales Invoice
- Material Sign-out
- Service Call Work Tickets
- Order / SO Checked Out
- Material Sign-out SWORD Data Entry Data Entry Made Easy

SWORD offers a Wizard-like interface which reduces the amount of time it takes to enter service call information, or update the service records, or add, or edit new service workers. New service workers can be added and transferred to another SO. Routes and service calls can be edited or deleted. SWORD also allows a user to enter service tickets online using a QuickBooks® Interface. This mechanism provides a seamless transition to and from the QuickBooks® interface and eliminates the need for a paper work receipt. SWORD Benefits: With SWORD your customers can check-out and track their orders while the field personnel are on the job. You can issue reports that show the amount of time and/or cost per customer

Monday, October 22, 2014 Project 365 Days Part-Four Hi all! It's Monday and here we go again. Today is Day 71 of the year. It's day three of Project 365 Days and it is always a struggle for me because I want to do a good job but that doesn't always happen. I'm trying to play catch up here but there will never be a good enough excuse to not keep up. MY WEEK: I thought we would end last week on Friday but then I had one of my meetings to close out my summer vacation. I stopped by a mall and it was the first time I had seen the new Disney Store at the mall since we moved to Florida. I went into the Disney store and they had Pirates of the Caribbean products. That's right folks. It's that pirate thing that has me all kinds of excited. I'm surprised they're doing a Disney thing or that they even had products that I would want. It's been a while since I've been excited about a Disney product. We went to Mall of America for a Halloween party. It was fun but I was really sick the night before. I wasn't really able to eat, take in much and
